Hannah Johnson : Blood Libel: The Ritual Murder Accusation at the Limit of Jewish History before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Blood Libel: The Ritual Murder

Accusation at the Limit of Jewish History:

"Hannah Johnson has succeeded in showing the relevance of medieval studies to the most pressing academic and political situations of the present day, without resorting to posturing or hysteria." - Anthony Bale, University of London "Blood Libel is original, thoughtful, and very brave in the way that it takes on the issue of ritual murder in historiography. The ethical frame makes wonderful sense here and it is a very useful and appropriate one for this set of vexed questions." - Lisa Lampert-Weissig, University of California, San Diego
About the Author Hannah R. Johnson is Associate Professor of English at the University of Pittsburgh.
