Robert B. Puryear III : Border Forays and Adventures before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Border Forays and Adventures:

Inscribed at the base of George Rogers Clark's statue are the words, "If a country is not worth protecting it is not worthy claiming." Clark, an early American hero, aged twenty-six years, leading his expedition, in 1778, to conquer the Illinois territory
