Book ReviewAble compiled and deftly edited by Donald J. Dietrich (Professor of Theology, Boston College), Christian Responses To The Holocaust: Moral And Ethical Issues assembles under one cover a variety of highly recommended essays contributed by learned Jewish and Christian authors -- and which study the responses of Protestants, Catholics, theologians, clergy, pastors, and the Christian laity to Nazi anti-Semitic ideology and genocidal acts of deliberate extermination of Jews. Exploring diverse responses that varied from endorsement and/or accommodation to disapproval and/or active resistance, Christian Responses To The Holocaust impressively explores all facets of a complex issue, and collectively does so in an impartial, reasonable, and scholarly manner.

Delineates the roles that individuals and their churches played in confronting Hitler. Written by both Jewish and Christian scholars, these essays focus on the Christian responses to Nazism and delineate the roles that individuals and their churches played in confronting Hitler.
